and assist in maintaining these package car lines to the advantage of not only shippers and consignees, but the carrier as well.

“Accept To-Day Deliver Tomorrow”

In the interest of shippers and consignees, the New Haven R.R. inaugurated the “Accept To-day—Deliver To-morrow” plan for handling less-than-carload freight and in putting this unique plan into effect an overnight movement either by direct car or a co-ordinated rail and highway service is provided between more than 95% of its stations.

The “Accept To-day—Deliver Tomorrow” plan, through the medium of “The Speed Witch” operating between Boston and Baltimore, and “The Maine Bullet” operating between New York and Portland, Maine, extends this overnight service to shippers and consignees at more than 900 stations on other railroads and improve movements by at least 24 hours to as many more.

Under the “Accept To-day—Deliver Tomorrow” plan of handling L. C. L. freight, ten major points of concentration and distribution have been designated, i.e., Boston, Providence, New London, New Haven, Bridgeport, New York, Waterbury, Hartford, Putnam and Worcester, between which overnight movement by rail is furnished. Highway trucks operating to and from points of concentration and distribution pick up merchandise for and distribute from the through cars operating in fast freight trains moving between the points of concentration and distribution and other important centers on the New Haven, and to and from the different gateways with connecting lines.

Shippers and consignees will find this improved service, that is not approached by any other means of merchandise transportation, to their advantage and convenience and it is hoped they will support it to the fullest extent.

New England Transportation Co.

Freight Trucking

A co-ordinated rail and highway freight trucking service was inaugurated August 7, 1929, and has, step by step, been extended until it now parallels substantially all of the rail lines and reaches substantially every station of the New Haven R.R. The fleet of highway trucks, tractors, and trailers now in use has been of material assistance in speeding up the movement of L.C.L. freight not only between stations on the New Haven R.R. but to and from points on other lines in connection with "The Speed Witch" operating between Boston and Baltimore and "The Maine Bullet" operating between New York and Portland, Maine, with which the highway service is directly co-ordinated.

The highway truck service operating to and from the various points of concentration and distribution not only handles package freight in connection with through cars and trains and from station to station on the New Haven, but between interior points and ports of the New England Steamship Company operating to and from New York City, i.e., New Bedford, Fall River, Providence, New London, New Haven and Bridgeport, and also handles, on account of the New England Transportation Company, package freight from shipper to consignee to meet the needs for expeditious handling. This co-ordinated or direct trucking arrangement furnishes a service not even approached by any other means of transportation.

In addition to the expeditious and dependable service to and from all points furnished by the co-ordinated rail and highway movements, the New England Transportation Company stands ready at all times to perform special trucking of practically any nature and information concerning this special overland trucking will, upon request, be furnished by any local freight agent or representative of the New Haven R.R. Freight Department, or
